The Great Avenue of Health.

Functions of the Skin.

The human skin is not merely a covering, but an organ. It has a definite and vital work to do.

Professor Huxley.

One of the greatest scientists of Queen Victoria's reign (Professor Huxley) showed that a healthy person throws off, through the skin, 12 ounces of impurities every 24 hours. Professor Seeley, the eminent naturalist, points out that a person with an imperfectly acting skin "cannot but sink into feeble health;" and another authority has declared that the quantity of impurities passed out of the body through the skin (either in a visible or invisible shape), is about twice the average amount breathed out by the lungs. To understand the function of the skin is therefore of the first importance.

Impurities out: Oxygen in.

There are five million pores whose mouths open upon the surface of the skin. Each is about one-fourth of an inch in length. The aggregate total length, if put in a straight line, would be some twenty-eight or thirty miles. Through these pores more than half of the waste, worn-out and poisonous matter of the body should—in a state of health—be carried off with the perspiration. The pores may be likened to little sewers through which impurities flow out; but they are also ventilating shafts through which noxious gases are thrown off, and—what is often quite forgotten—life-giving oxygen taken in to vitalize the blood and invigorate the body. In short, we breathe through the skin, as well as by the lungs.

The Beginning of Bad Health.

As soon as the action of the skin is retarded a person begins to fall away from the state of perfect health.

The conditions of life are now such that the majority of people do not perspire sufficiently to keep the skin active, and the system cleansed and oxygenated. Consequently, impurities and poisonous matter are retained in the body; where they become the primary cause of nearly all illness and disease—rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, bad blood, poor complexion, nervous troubles, obesity, kidney disease, and various other disorders. Against this condition a soap and water bath is non-effective.

The Most Potent Remedy.

The most potent agent for remedying want of exercise, rendering the skin active, cleansing the system, vivifying the blood, strengthening the body, and driving out disease, is the hot air and vapour bath, commonly called the Turkish Bath. According to the Journal of Hygiene, "this bath, in the gentlest manner, causes the skin of the bather to discharge the refuse of his system, the process of unloading going on steadily and constantly. Thus the causes of disease are thrown off. The blood is equalised, and congested organs relieved. The whole system is vivified by the purified blood stream, and life's processes go on more rapidly under the influence of hot air. Half-active lungs regain full action, the cloudy brain becomes clear, and its pristine activity reinstated. . . . The primary action of the heat is to relax the tissues, thus inviting a more perfect distribution of blood. Every organ is quickened, and secretion and excretion are more thorough and complete. Thus is established the most perfect system of sewerage of the body."

"Nothing is thrown off but what the system is better without."

WHO SHOULD USE THE TURKISH BATH

Who and When?

In view of what has been already said, and the fact that a great doctor has declared that the hot-air and vapour bath is one of the most potent remedial agents known to the medical profession, and that it should be introduced into every home, it is a great mistake to suppose that the Turkish bath need only be used by people when they are ill. True that the best physicians know the bath to afford the best treatment for colds, influenza, rheumatism, blood and skin diseases, nervous troubles, kidney complaints, and other diseases due to failure of the system to rid itself of its impurities; but the Turkish bath is more than a cure; it is a preventative, and prevention is better than cure. Regular use of this bath prevents the accumulation in the system of those impurities that are the cause of indisposition, ill-health, and disease.

Everybody, whether ill or well should use the Turkish bath regularly. In the one case, the bath cures disease, in the other, it prevents it. There is nobody—man, woman, or child—who is not benefited by this Turkish bath. He who is ill is made well; they that are healthy are made healthier and are fortified against disease.

Especially to those who, living in cities, do not get enough exercise in fresh air, the Turkish bath is a boon. In the words of a celebrated doctor, Sir Erasmus Wilson, the Turkish bath is to them "air, exercise, freshness, cleanliness, health and life." What more can be said?

Whether fatigue and the presence of impurities in the system are due to body-work or brain-work, or to over-eating, intemperate drinking, or too much clothing, the Turkish bath is the unfailing remedy. As the air in the cabinet becomes heated, the relaxing influence of the gradually increasing temperature becomes manifest to the bather. The pores are slowly dilated under the gentle stimulus, and perspiration breaks forth.

A delightful calm, a feeling of perfect enjoyment and luxurious ease, takes possession of the bather. The secretions of the skin, loaded with the impurities and poisonous matter of the blood, are entirely expelled through the millions of pores by sweating.

It renovates the entire body, equalises the circulation, and by removing all impurities, softens and beautifies the skin. The dormant energies are aroused, the liver is renewed and the kidneys and nerve centres strengthened. The whole body is cleansed and refreshed.

To Whom Invaluable.

The Gem Turkish Bath is invaluable to the Clergyman, to the harassed Lawyer, to the jaded Journalist, to the sedentary worker of every kind—Clerk, Shorthand Writer, Book-keeper, or Craftsman—and to the weary workman, because it equalises the circulation, relieves the brain, and tones up the whole system; because it mitigates the ill effect of late hours and the unequal use of brain and body; because it cleanses the system, and brings the benefits of exercise without the disadvantages of unnecessary wear and tear of the tissues; and because it frees the blood of the products of excessive labour whether physical or mental.

Ladies.

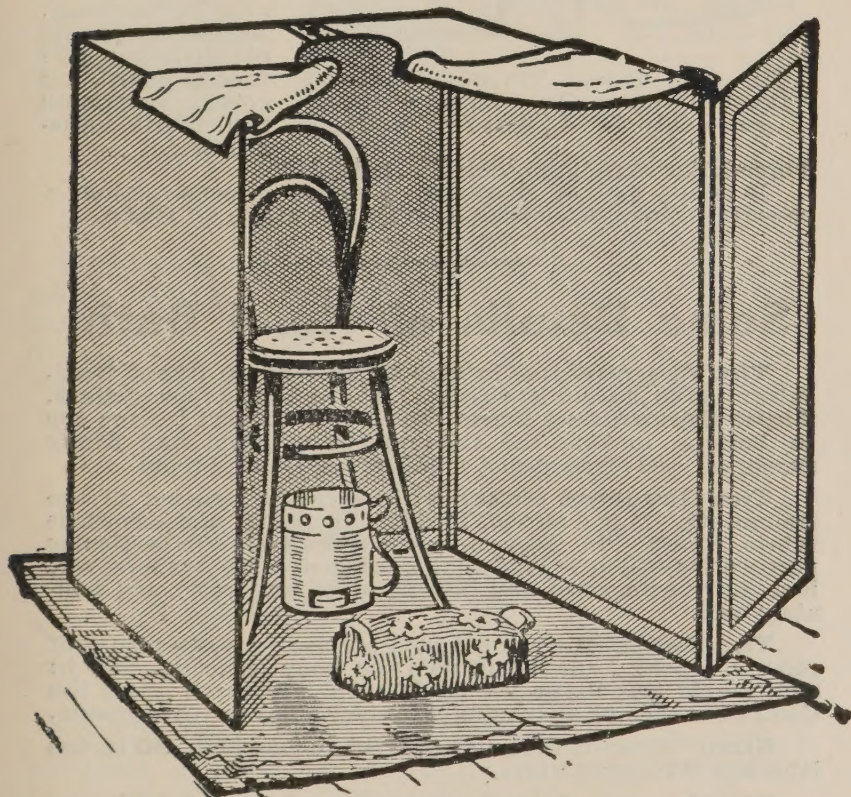

With the Gem bath ladies can enjoy all the pleasures and benefits of thermal bathing in the privacy of their own homes. For the complexion, the Turkish Bath is unequalled. A good complexion depends on purity of blood and healthiness of the skin. The bath gives both as nothing else can. Here is the testimony of a medical man: "Sallowiness, tan, and freckles disappear by the regular use of the Turkish Bath, which causes rapid development of new cells. The coloured granules are gradually replaced, and the skin assumes a beautiful clearness and purity of appearance which transcends immeasurably the unhealthy hue which follows the employment of cosmetics. Pimples, blotches, and eruptions disappear, leaving the skin smooth and soft."

The Covering Material is securely fastened to the framework. It is a strong, durable, hygienic, non-absorbent fabric, which is in every respect perfect for the particular purpose for which it is specially designed. That is to say, it is sanitary, safe, germ and disease proof, antiseptic, and non-absorbent.

Other Features of the No. 1 Bath.

This Bath is the one we have advertised and sold so extensively for many years—that on which the high reputation of the “Gem” Turkish Bath has been built up. The only difference is that we have made many improvements in it since it was first introduced. An examination of it will show that no other Cabinet is at once so convenient, durable, roomy, strong, light, compact and handsome, or capable of giving such entire satisfaction.

THE DOOR is the full width of the Cabinet, and is opened and closed with the greatest ease, it being kept closed by two simple inside fasteners that can be undone in an instant.

(Illus. showing supports and inside fasteners).

TOP FLAPS OR CURTAINS.—One of the many points at which the “Gem” Bath excels is in the method of closing the top of the Cabinet. In some baths offered to the public the top is cut into three or four sections or flaps, with the result that they sag on the bather, causing discomfort and inconvenience. The top of the “Gem” Bath is in two pieces only, but so shaped and fixed as to give each curtain support on three sides thus preventing it from dropping,

Top Flaps shown partly turned back. but at the same time providing the maximum of facility for “cooling off.”—See illustration,

THE GREAT SUCCESS of our No. 1 Standard Bath has led to some tawdry imitations, and has induced some firms, who exacted what many people regarded as extortionate prices for a light, portable bath, to add to their stock an inferior article which is, as it were, “put in the window” for advertising purposes, while the expensive article is pushed in the shop. Our Cabinet is our standard, and whether an inquirer comes in person or writes to us it is invariably the bath that is shown to him and highly recommended.

"This," we say, "is the famous Gem Turkish Bath, on which our reputation has been built up, which is the subject of a great volume of testimony from grateful users; we GUARANTEE IT to be absolutely as herein described, and to do everything that is claimed for Turkish or Thermal baths generally. If, having bought this bath, you show us that it does not come up to our warranty, we will give you your money back."

Outside Heaters.

The first Home Turkish Baths (not the Gem Baths) were heated by burning methylated spirits in a saucer or other dish—a dangerous method should the dish be upset. Later, many forms of heater were devised and the inside Heater was steadily improved by the Gem Supplies Company until it attained the highest degree of perfection in the Gem patent three-light stove, which holds the spirit, not in a free fluid form, but in suspension in three chambers, packed with non-inflammable silicate wool.

At every point the Gem Home Turkish Bath Cabinets (which provide hot-air, vapour, medicated and perfumed baths) have always been in the van, superior to anything else of the kind, but if there has been any one thing in which the Gem Bath has been conspicuously pre-eminent it has been its arrangement for heating. Great numbers of the Gem three-light inside Heater were bought by people who had purchased baths from other makers whose stoves were found to be unsatisfactory.

Some of the inside Heaters sold by other makers were so unsatisfactory as to prejudice many people against inside heaters. Some people do not care to have the Heater inside the Cabinet, no matter how excellent it may be. Others again prefer the inside Heater: these will find the Gem three-light inside Heater effective and safe.

To meet the demand for Outside Heaters, we have perfected, a Gas Outside Stove and two different Outside Heaters for use with Methylated Spirits.

Gem Outside Gas Stove.

O.S., outside stove; G.B., gas bracket; R.T., rubber tubing, which conveys gas to the stove; T., tap, inside bath, by which the bather controls gas supply; M.C.T., metal covered tube, from tap to stove; F.F., funnel which conveys the hot air, or vapour, from stove into the bath.

This Gas Stove confers the maximum of convenience, efficiency, economy and safety. Here are some of its features and advantages :—The temperature is strictly under the control of the bather, at whose hand is (T) the tap by means of which the gas can be increased, lessened, or entirely cut off; the bath may be thoroughly heated before the bather enters the Cabinet; it can be prepared ready for use in a very short time; the heat may be continued for long periods if necessary; the cost per bath is a mere trifle. The apparatus is made almost entirely of burnished copper, and will last for many years.

GAS STOVE.—With 4 feet of flexible metal-covering tubing, with tap to fix inside of Cabinet, thus giving the bather complete control £3 3s. of the stove without leaving the Cabinet

No. 1 Bath, with Gas Outside Stove £5 9s.
Price includes carriage paid by passenger train

Extra Tubing (with push-on ends) is required to connect the tube (at T) in Cabinet to Bather's own Gas Jet—we can supply, to order, lengths of 4ft., 1/6; 6ft., 2s.

Leg shield and Chair Pad (recommended), 6/6.

Gem Outside Spirit Stove.

This stove provides an Outside heater where gas is not available. It burns Methylated Spirit. As in the case of the Gas Outside Stove, the heat is conveyed to the Bath by a metal funnel which projects well inside the Bath.

This is a sketch of the parts of the Outside Spirit Heater, which is shown on page 8 set up and in position for use. The latest pattern is not fitted with a door.

Customers can themselves fit these outside Gas and Spirit Heaters to Baths which they already have in use.

THE MOST HANDSOME PORTABLE BATH CABINET

The No. 2 Gem Cabinet has double walls of specially prepared sanitary, germ proof fabric, and is black outside as well as inside. Otherwise, in size, shape, and general arrangement, it is similar to our No. 1 Pattern. It appeals specially to purchasers who prefer a cabinet with double walls, the outside as well as the inside of which is furnished with the specially prepared dark non-absorbent surface. Weight about 15 lbs.

The Gem Traveller's Bath.

For greater convenience in travelling, we have designed a Cabinet which, made in eight sections instead of four, folds into half the width of the ordinary pattern. To ensure rigidity when the Cabinet is erected, four steel struts are stretched across the frames. When "set up" the Cabinet is almost identical in appearance to No. 1. When folded, the dimensions are as follows: 42in. high, 14½in. wide, 2½in. thick. Complete with the patent three-light Inside Spirit Heater, £3 5s. Carriage paid. Carpet Protector, 6/6 extra.

Head and Face Attachment.

This is a very simple hood arrangement with ventilating holes, which is placed over the head of the bather, and more readily induces perspiration of the face and head. It can be used for cold in the head, nasal catarrh, sore throat, asthma, tonsillitis, neuralgia, blackheads, pimples, &c. Ordinarily it need not be used. Price 2/-

Carpet Protectors.

The Carpet Protector is a square of Cabinet Cloth to place below the Bath Cabinet. The edges are turned up slightly so that water used in sponging the body is prevented from soiling the carpet. 6/6 each, postage 9d. Not essential.

Leg Shield and Chair Pad.

Strongly recommended. Consists of a pad for the chair, made of waterproof cloth, packed with wood wool, and lined asbestos cloth. Part of it drops in front of the legs of the chair. Protects the lower part of the body from the heat. 6/6, postage 9d.

Turkish Bath Towels.

Special make of brown linen, 23 by 46, 3/6 each, post free 4/-.

Flexible Bath Brush.

In glove form, gives invigorating friction, 3/6, post paid 4/-.

TESTIMONY.

Spontaneously given by grateful users of the Gem Turkish Bath Cabinet.

Birmingham, 12th July, 1932.

Carbuncles. My son had carbuncles very bad during the last four months, on his back, abdomen and legs—sometimes three at once—but he has persevered with the baths, taking one every other day. They have gradually got smaller, and these last ten days he has been clear of them altogether. I don't think medicine could have possibly done what the baths have done, as he was under treatment the first six weeks, taking two bottles of medicine each week, but with no effect whatever. I wouldn't have thought it possible to perspire so much, the sweat dropping on to the floor, yet, he says, it does not weaken him in the least. I am more than pleased with it, and wish I'd had one years ago.—G. T.

Bristol, 5th March, 1932.

An enthusiastic user.—I bought my first Cabinet over 30 years ago, and have been an enthusiastic user ever since, and never lose an opportunity to strongly recommend the Bath to friends or strangers, as I know only too well the benefits resulting from the regular use; they are the key to real good health and the cure for many ills. The more friends I can induce to try them the better pleased I am, as I know the good turn I am doing them.—G. L. C.

Neuritis. About seven years ago, I had a very severe attack of neuritis, so bad, I had to keep my arm in a cradle and had many sleepless nights. I consulted several physicians and took a quantity of medicine, with no beneficial results. I was advised by a friend to get one of your Cabinets. . . . I took five baths first week, four the second, and three the third week, and at the end of that time I was free from my trouble.—A. E. L.

In use 20 years. Nearly twenty years ago I purchased one of your Bath Cabinets, and some of the fastenings have now broken away from the material. . . . Providing we have the necessary new fastenings I see no reason why it should not then last another twenty years. I certainly have never made a better investment. . . . There is not the least doubt that the regular use of the Cabinet, together with a plain and wholesome diet, appropriate exercise, and as much fresh air and sunlight as possible, would speedily relegate disease of every description into the limbo of "Long-forgotten, far-off things."—J. R. K., Tottenham.

Twenty-three years Hard Wear. . . . I very frequently think of you as I am still using the Gem Bath I had from you over 20 years ago, and was only thinking on Monday night last what a good advertisement it would be for the Gem people if they exhibited it after—to be exact—some 23 years hard wear.—G. H. F.

Colds and Chills. The finest cure for colds and chills is undoubtedly a Gem Bath. I have proved it over and over again, and am always recommending it to friends.—M. P.

For Rheumatism. I have been looking back and find that I purchased the Cabinet six years ago, and it has been in regular use since. I must now apologize for not writing you before to let you know the benefits I have received from its use. There is nothing to beat it for rheumatism and the health generally. I have recommended the Cabinet to friends.—W. T.

Most profitable purchase ever made. The Gem Bath has given the fullest satisfaction. I certainly regard it as the most profitable and advantageous purchase I have ever made.—W. E.

Wonderful, Convenient. It is with sincere pleasure I congratulate you on producing such a wonderful, convenient, and above all such a health-giving bath.—A. W. F.

Voted "Incurable." As I am writing I should like to say how very useful the Cabinet Bath has been to me. I am an invalid, a "bad case" as the doctors say, but the Bath is one of my greatest comforts. I could not do without it. It is in constant use.—M. G. W.

Twelve years in use. The Bath Cabinet has been in use for 12 years, and except that the fastenings work loose, it is as good as when new.—J. G.

Nearly fifteen years in use. I have had my Cabinet and used it weekly for close upon 15 years, and I like it as much as ever.—A Reverend Gentleman.

Should be in every home. I have received quite good results from the Cabinet, and I am quite pleased with it. I think it would be a great benefit to every one, and should be in everyone's home.

Is really splendid. I am delighted with the Gem Cabinet, with outside heater. It really is splendid.—E. C.

Rheumatism and Sciatica. What a wonderful investment it was purchasing one of your No. 1 Bath Cabinets. I had spent a few pounds on various remedies, but of no use. My doctor said he could not help me; advised me to go to a clinic, which would mean me losing a lot of time from business. Then I saw your advt.—I immediately decided to have one. In less than a month it not only cured my rheumatism but sciatica as well, and I have not lost an ounce of flesh. I felt a new man after my first bath; my wife also felt better.—T. W. F., 15th March, 1932.

PRESS OPINIONS

OF THE

GEM TURKISH BATH CABINET.

It is to be noted that the following testimony is particularly valuable, inasmuch as many of the publications are expressly concerned in dealing with appliances which relate to health, hygiene, and sanitation.

Health for All.—Sufferers from rheumatism will find that much assistance in its cure may be obtained by using a Home Turkish Bath such as is supplied by the Gem Supplies Co. Ltd., at moderate prices.

The Hospital—

"Simple, effective, and inexpensive. In case of colds and rheumatism the bath will be found a great comfort."

Science Siftings—"Can be thoroughly relied upon, and very moderate in price."

Nursing Record—"Should find a place in every house."

Health—"Should be of value in rheumatism, gout, eczema, lumbago, sciatica, skin, liver, and kidney affections."

Sanitary Record—"There is absolutely no danger attending its use. We feel sure medical men will only need to become acquainted with this useful Cabinet in order to recommend its use to their patients."

Family Doctor—"Must be hailed with welcome."

The English Mechanic—

"We say once more that any man or woman suffering from defective circulation in any form, cannot do better than permanently instal the 'Gem' Cabinet Bath in his bathroom or bedroom. It will save the sick pounds in doctor's bills, and keep the healthy well. These chilly nights, we have shut ourselves up in the Bath Cabinet with the rapture of a traveller seeking the 'shadow' of a great rock in a weary wilderness," and waited in calm placidity for the invariable results—complete restoration of circulation, relief of the over-charged brain, opening up of the frozen or clogged surface pores, and after a rub down, and occasionally a skin massage with pure olive oil, to slumber sound and sweet."

New Health.—Too much cannot be said as to the importance of keeping the pores of the skin active and in good working order. To allow the pores to become clogged is to bring about, or to aggravate, one or more of a great variety of forms of ill-health—rheumatism, sciatica, etc. An eminent physician has declared that 75% of all illness is caused by allowing the skin to become clogged by effete matter, whereby noxious and disease-producing matter is retained in the system instead of being ejected through the skin. To preserve health, or to regain it once it has been lost, the skin must be kept active and the body clean. An excellent agency for securing this is the Gem Bath Cabinet for the Home, which costs

55/- only.

Erasmus Wilson, the Eminent Physician, in a paper read before the London Medical Association in reference to the Hot-Air and Vapour Bath said:

"If these Baths were in public use the inhabitants of every large city would live as healthy immured within city walls as amid the fields and meadows of the country. His bath would be to him in the place of his country home or horse. It would give him air, exercise, freshness, cleanliness, health and life.

"This Bath cleanses the inward as well as the outward man. It is applicable to every age, adapted to make health healthier, and alleviate disease, whatever its stage of severity. It deserves to be adopted as a National Institution, and merits the advocacy of all medical men and those whose special duty it is to teach how health may be preserved and how diseases may be averted."

Cannot Afford it?

Some people admit the value of our Bath, but say they "can't afford it." Can anybody better afford sickness, absence from business, medicine, and doctors' bills?

Good health is worth more to you and your family than gold or diamonds. On it depends your success and happiness, your capacity to do profitable work, and to enjoy such pleasures as this life affords.

Don't wait to get sick. Prevent disease—that is the watchword of all intelligent people. Order a Cabinet to-day. Do it now. Use it once or twice a week, and you will keep your system in a pure and healthy condition. It will prove to be the cheapest and best investment you ever made. After using it once you will never part with it.

How many Thousands of persons are there who could have avoided a long spell of sickness, and saved hundreds of pounds in doctors' bills and medicine, besides their lost time, by doing the right thing at the right time. For instance, a cold, unless checked, brings on influenza, fevers, pneumonia, catarrh, quinsy, asthma, tonsillitis, lung trouble, rheumatism, aches, pains, kidney trouble and innumerable diseases. The worst cold is cured by using our Bath Cabinet.

You would not think of going to sleep without insuring your house or goods. People get sick one thousand times where one house takes fire. Get a Cabinet now. Insure your health and prevent disease. The Gem Bath Cabinet will be worth its cost a hundred times a year. It is more important than an Insurance Policy.

Our Bath Cabinets are warranted to be exactly as described. Our prices have been fixed for a strictly CASH business. Correspondents will avoid disappointment and save us trouble by keeping in view that we do not send Goods unless the Order is accompanied by a remittance.
